A Story That Moved Us

At Doors of Love, we are always moved by the generosity and compassion of people who believe in helping children in need. But this month, I want to share a story that deeply touched my heart—and I believe it will touch yours as well.

From Long Beach with Love

A church in Long Beach, California, learned about our project. Their Children's Director was so inspired that she shared the vision with the kids in her church's children's ministry. From there, something extraordinary happened: the kids decided to launch their own campaign.

For six months—beginning in February—the children were taught about compassion, generosity, and what it means to be a blessing to others. They prayed, worked extra chores, set aside their allowance, and even came up with creative ways to raise funds. All with one purpose: to help children just like them across the southern border.

The fruit of their faith

And the result? Earlier this month, the Children's Director and their local pastor personally came to our office to deliver the offering. Together, those kids raised $1,000!

This brought me to tears. How incredible it is to see such faith, love, and compassion lived out through children. They set aside what little they had and chose to make a difference for others in greater need. Their example is a powerful reminder to us as adults: if children can do this with childlike faith and action, what could we accomplish if we did the same?

What will you do with this inspiration?

And you?

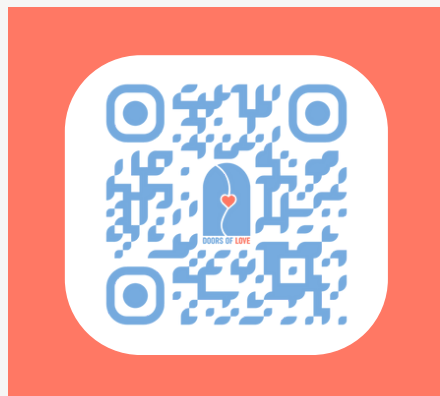

So here's my challenge to you this month: those kids gave $1,000—will you do the same? I'm asking each of us, individually, to step out in faith and generosity. Can you personally give $1,000 this month to help build Doors of Love and transform lives?

If kids can do it, so can we. Match their faith. Match their gift.

Together, we can continue to build Doors of Love, one act of generosity at a time.
